

Former Minster residents launch TheSophisticatedCat.com

CHICAGO, Ill. – Two former Minster residents have launched a Web site dedicated to cat lovers everywhere.

TheSophisticatedCat.Com (www.thesophisticatedcat.com) brings the retail pet business to an entirely new level, committed to providing unique, stylish and trendy items for cats and their owners, according to the Web site's owners.

TheSophisticatedCat.Com was founded by an experienced team to offer only the very best for dedicated pet owners and their felines, said the owners of the Web site, Laura and Brad Roetgerman, who are originally from Minster.

The site offers a range of products and prices, for those on a budget and those who spare no expense for their feline friends. The site's products are intended to be innovative, interesting and useful for pets and their owners. In addition, this site offers handbags designed to transport a cat, many of which are approved for airline travel. The product line features several products from distinguished and recognized designers.

The site has offers a new series of handmade cat collars, featuring delicate beads and stones, including Swarovski Crystals. The most recent addition to this line is the Birthstone cat collar. These that have been developed for the cat lovers who want to make sure that they remember and celebrate their pet's birthdays.